NALMS Update

This week the Annual Conference of the North American Lake Management Society

(NALMS) takes place in Oklahoma City. The Inland Lakes Monitoring Scientist with the MOE/FOCA Lake

Bronze Sponsors

Partner Program (Anna DeSellas) will be attending this year's conference, and also will be chairing NALMS' volunteer monitoring subcommittee. Though NALMS is a U.S.- based organization, Ontario's significant interest in the health of our freshwater is well represented at NALMS. In addition to the current and active role of Anna and other MOE colleagues, this year NALMS will elect the first Canadian as President. FOCA wishes to congratulate Bev Clark, formerly of the MOE Dorset Environmental Science Centre, on being elected President of this prestigious group.

NALMS was founded in 1980, and continues to be focussed on lake management for a wide variety of uses. To address this it forges partnerships among citizens, scientists, and professionals to foster the management and protection of lakes and reservoirs for today and tomorrow.

If you or your lake group would like to find out more about NALMS freshwater research or are looking for some specific information, contact us at programs@foca.on.ca or visit the NALMS website.

FOCA continues to be a member of the North American Lake Management Society as part of our effort to support sustainable waterfront communities in Ontario.

Ontario Professional Planners Award Winner

Terry Rees, FOCA, with Randy French of French Planning Services, who won the Ontario Professional Planners Institute Award of Excellence for the Lake Planning Handbook for Community Groups, October 2010.

Keeping your family's cottage history alive...

Imagine seeing your grandparents on TV speaking to you about what their lives were like back then. This can now be a reality for future generations of your family. Many of us would like to preserve our family legacy but somehow never get around to it.

Below is a link to "Family History Now" whom we believe provides a very unique service. They record your family's history professionally with video and photography so the stories of your life, your cottage beginnings, are preserved forever.

Please click this link below to find out all about it. You can contact them directly to arrange for a free consultation.

A portion of the proceeds from FOCA members' "Family History Now" projects will be donated back to FOCA

Past editions of FOCA Elerts are available on the FOCA website (click here). Share this FOCA Elert with your association membership by clicking the blue "Forward email" link below.
